SUPREME TRIBUNAL DECISION

Holds Courts and Not State Legislature Has the Right to Reinstatement Attorney Who Has Been Disbarred—Other Columbus Happenings.

Special Columbus Correspondent.
Columbus, Feb. 25.—The state is about to loose the services of its oldest official. He is Thomas Winslow of Toledo, aged 82 years, who has been district examiner of engineers since the creation of the department 14 years ago. Mr. Winslow has tendered his resignation to Chief Examiner E. M. Elzemann, effective March 1. He is retiring because of his advanced age and ill health. He served in the army during the Civil war and participated in a number of important engagements. He was an engineer on the vessels for a number of years. He is a Republican. On account of failing health he was permitted to remain in his office during the past year, an examiner from another district having been detailed to travel over his district to examine applicants for licenses.

High Court Ruling.
The courts and not the legislature has the right to reinstate an attorney who has been disbarred. This principle of law is laid down by the supreme court in a decision upholding the action of the Lucas county common pleas court in refusing to allow Charles A. Thatcher of Toledo to practice while under disbarment, notwithstanding that the legislature enacted a law seeking to reinstate him in his profession. Thatcher was reinstated by the supreme court after he started a case in which he raised the question of the common pleas court's right to refuse to allow him to practice. Little Drinking in Encampments.
That there is very little drinking of toxicants in encampments of the Ohio National Guard is indicated by reports made on these encampments by inspectors of the war department. Maj. Harry G. Bishop of the Fifth field artillery, regular army, his report on the encampment of the Eighth regiment, a copy of which has been received by the adjutant general, said that the command was a remarkably abstemious one, and that he served no liquor in its camp. Equally complimentary was the report of Maj. George C. Saffarans of the Seventh infantry, on the Third regiment. He said that there was practically no liquor used in camp at all. Both commands passed excellent inspections. The commanding officers were strongly commended for their efficiency.

For Woman Suffrage.
The circulation of petitions for a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage in Ohio will be begun in earnest next week. The petitions have been drawn and have received the approval of the secretary of state, who failed to find in them any technical flaws. The petitions must bear 10 per cent of the voters in the state in order that the amendment may be submitted to popular vote next fall. Those circulating them are being instructed by the suffrage leaders to follow strictly to the provisions of the new initiative and referendum "safeguards." Petitions circulated for woman suffrage last fall are to be destroyed in deference to the new law and safeguard law and the amendment movement begun all over again.

Lives of Children Ruined.
The lives of many dependent children in Ohio and other states are annually ruined by misplacement in private homes, is the opinion of charity workers. The misplacement is the result of lack of care on the part of those having the children in charge to see to it that the child placed in a private home is suited to the home and the home to him. The expert charity workers of Ohio keenly realize that a home suited to one child can be wholly unsuited to another, and therefore the problem of how to and when to select a home for the home child is the chief topic of interest for the big conference being held here this week under the supervision of the Ohio Board of State Charities.

Machine to Test Gas.
People of Ohio soon will be able to know the precise quality of the gas they burn in their homes. A machine test gas efficiency as a heating and lighting agency has been placed in use by C. V. Critchfield, gas expert of the state public utilities commission. It will be used whenever a dispute arises from any section of the state about the gas that is being supplied. Mr. Critchfield, by the way, has set a standard of quality that gas is expected to reach. To meet a standard, gas must be able to furnish a fixed number of heat units per cubic foot. Whenever gas is unable to do the requirement it will be designated "inefficient," or "below standard." However, after all, the standard doesn't mean very much for the simple reason that the state utilities commission has no power to make any gas company live up to it. New laws are being proposed to provide this authority.

FRIENDS DEAD, SAVES LIFE

WOMAN RESORTS TO A TRICK WHEN HUSBAND SHOOT AT HER AND WOUNDS SELF.

Gloversville, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Presence of mind probably saved Mrs. James McConnell's life when she was being pursued by an enraged husband with a revolver in his hand. McConnell fired twice at the fleeing woman, the first shot striking the rim of her sash and causing a slight flesh wound in the forehead, while the second was imbedded in her hair. When the second shot was fired, Mrs. McConnell dropped apparently dead to the bathtub, and her husband, believing he had killed her, turned the weapon on himself and fired two bullets into his head. He is expected to recover.

CEMENT ROADS ARE FAVORED

By R. L. Templin of Cleveland, a Native of Green Township, Where He Spent Half a Century.

To the Green Township Trustees:
Fifty years of the writer's life were spent in good old Green township, and naturally I am still interested there. I was pleased to note that you have been authorized, by an almost unanimous vote, to expend one hundred thousand dollars in good roads construction. You have a heavy responsibility on your shoulders, and I would not be surprised if you are losing some sleep in thinking over the problem of how you can spend this money to the best interest of the township.

I have watched with interest the development of the good roads proposition during the last three or four years. I have seen the construction and destruction of miles of macadam roads in Mahoning county and elsewhere, and am pretty thoroughly convinced this is not the most economical kind of road to build if durability is considered.

I have had occasion to see thousands of miles of roads during the last year, having driven a touring car through the east, visiting most of the large cities. The majority of the roads in the east are of limestone, macadam construction, as there is an abundance of material throughout that section. In many places we saw stone crushing machinery at the side of the road, crushing and screening the material for the roads. As a rule, we found the roads in fine condition, with men continually repairing them. I read in a recent issue of Literary Digest that it costs an average of $600 per mile each year to keep the macadam roads in repair in New York, and $900 in Massachusetts. At this rate the ten miles of road that you will build in Green would cost you about five thousand per year to keep them in repair. A pretty serious proposition to figure on in addition to first cost.

Probably the best road to build is of brick construction, on a concrete foundation. The most serious objection is the cost of construction. Another objection that I have frequently heard is that they are too slippery in wet weather. Most of the principal roads leading into Cleveland are of brick construction. Those first built were simply laid on the ground without any foundation beneath, and are already in bad condition, in many places needing repairs. Those recently built are on a six-inch concrete foundation, and are in the finest condition, showing no signs of wear.

I am an advocate of solid concrete road construction. I do not know just what the cost is per mile, but I understand it is about halfway between brick and macadam.

In the summer of 1912 I had occasion to visit the leading cities of Michigan, and saw quite a number of concrete roads, especially around Detroit. They are easily distinguished by the black asphalt seal running across them every 30 to 40 feet, to provide for expansion and contraction.

Some time ago I read an article on the National Good Roads Convention, held in Detroit last season. Accompanying this article was a large illustration entitled "Building Good Roads in Michigan." The prominent feature of the illustration was two men on a plank that was swung across the road. Each had a plastering trowel and was smoothing off the cement surface of the road.

We have about a half mile of concrete roads in one of our parks in Cleveland. I do not know just when it was built, but it is in fine condition.

to the first cost the freight, and delivery from railroad to place of construction. To this they will add something for unforeseen emergencies, and on top of this a fair profit.

WHY NOT BUILD YOUR OWN ROADS? You have the necessary material within a mile of where it will be needed for any roads you will build in the township. I refer to the abundance of stone all over the township.

Why not buy a stone crusher, and concrete mixer of the latest up-to-date kind, install them right on the job, governing the price according to distance the stone must be hauled, so that each farmer will have a reasonable compensation for his time. Apportion some one, say your worthy clerk, C. C. Pettit, to be right on the job all the time to check up each load of material, and see that the right proportion of cement is used all the time. The stone crusher will crush the material to any size desired, even to manufacturing the necessary sand to make a complete mixture.

By this method you can keep seventy-five per cent of the money right in the township. You will have one of the best roads in the county, and have the satisfaction of knowing that you have value received for every dollar expended.

Don't build your roads too wide. Nine or ten feet wide at one side of the center is better in my opinion than a fifteen foot road in the center, because for eight months of the year the farmers will prefer to use the dirt road, thereby obviating unnecessary wear for two-thirds of the year. Another reason is, it will be more convenient to deliver the material during construction, and will not obstruct traffic. Fourteen or fifteen miles of road nine feet in width will be of greater value to the township than nine or ten miles fifteen feet wide.

I have given you my opinion on the subject and would suggest that before making any definite contract you investigate the merits of the concrete road. Go to Detroit after the snow leaves, examine the roads around Detroit, and learn all you can about their construction.

Yours for good roads,
R. L. TEMPLIN.

HICKORY

Feb. 25.—Miss Twilla Huffman, who has been very sick with pneumonia, was taken to the Salem hospital Sunday for an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun moved Friday to their new home in New Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Bingham of Prospect Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Justice and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Justice spent last Wednesday with Thos. Weaver and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams of Apple Avenue spent Tuesday evening with John Gordon and family.

Myrtle and Carl Huffman are recovering from pneumonia.

Little Edith Lutes, who was operated on in the Salem hospital a few weeks ago, underwent another operation Tuesday.

Friends hope for her speedy recovery.

TOLD IN CANFIELD

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Dispatch have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons, living far away. The cases are Canfield cases, told by Canfield people.

C. H. Edsall, engineer, Canfield, O., says: "I suffered from disordered kidneys. I had pains in my back and the kidney secretions were unnatural. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. My back stopped bothering me and the kidney secretions became natural."

Mr. Edsall is only one of many Canfield people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if you kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Edsall had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c at all stores.
